

Biography

Adam O. Werner
Deputy for Programs and Project
Management/Project Delivery Team
Transatlantic Programs Center

Adam O. “Ollie” Werner is the deputy for programs and project management/project delivery team and the senior civilian for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Transatlantic Programs Center of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, headquartered in Winchester, Virginia. As such, he is responsible for all mission development and program execution and he directly supervises the engineering, construction, and contracting directorates.

The Transatlantic Programs Center serves as the Corps’ design and construction agent for work in the Middle East, Africa and Russia.

Mr. Werner was born in Homestead, Pennsylvania. He holds bachelor’s and master’s degrees in civil engineering from the University of Pittsburgh.

Mr. Werner has worked in the Corps of Engineers headquarters in Washington D.C.; for the Corps’ Pittsburgh District, the Pullman Swindell Corporation; and the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation.

With the exception of the two years spent in the Corps’ headquarters, he has been with the Transatlantic Programs Center and its predecessors since July 1977, holding the following positions: structural engineer; chief, structural section; chief, technical branch; chief, engineering division; and technical director of engineering and construction. In 1990, he served in a temporary assignment as director of engineering for the Corps’ North Atlantic Division in New York City. He was named to his current position in 1992.

He has been actively involved in the American Society of Civil Engineers and the Society of American Military Engineers for many years. He served as president of the Blue Ridge Post of S.A.M.E. in 1986-87 and again in 1994.

He is a registered professional engineer in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Werner and his wife Ann have two sons and two daughters.
